

Città del Vaticano

Founded in 1929 by a contract with the Italian Government, the Vatican is the smallest state in the world. Besides 440.000 square meters within the walls, some buildings in Rome also have extraterritorial status, i.e.: St. Paul's Outside the Walls, S. Maria Maggiore, Cancelleria on Corso Vittorio Emanuele, Castel Sant' Angelo and others.

Elected for life-time the pope is not only the head of Vatican, he also is the head of the Catholic Church and the Bishop of Rome. The Vatican state law gives him full legal, executive and judicial powers, activated by a committee of cardinals appointed by him every five years.

The Vatican has its own newspaper and stamps and it also mints its own coins. The Radio Station is broadcasting world-wide in several languages.

A. The Carriage Museum

Carriages, Cars, and Sedan Chairs which have been used by a number of popes. Also includes Vatican City's railway engine.

B. Border of Leonine City

The first walls surrounding the basilica and the little village which has sprung up nearby. Built in the 9th century by Leo IV (847-855).

C. Basilica di San Pietro

St. Peter crucified in 64 A.D. was buried among some Christian martyrs in the 'ager vaticanus'. Recognizing Christianity with the Edict of Milan, the Emperor Constantine started building a large church in the 4th century. The tomb of St. Peter was placed in the center.

Julius II (1503-1513) pulled down Constantine's basilica and built the new St. Peter's, planned and constructed by Michelangelo. In the mid-16th century, the central part of St. Peter's was covered with a beautiful vaulted dome by Giacomo della Porta.

Maderno added two bays in the early 17th century, later on Bernini completed the Piazza San Pietro, giving this place today's appearance.

D. Audience Hall

Built between 1966 and 1971. With 6.000 seats and another standing capacity for 6.000, this hall is one of the most interesting buildings in modern Rome.

E. Palace of Sixtus

Built under Sixtus V (1485-90). This is the palace where the present pope lives. On Sunday noon he stands at the window, blessing the crowd at St. Peter's Square

F. The Pinacoteca

Founded by Pius XI (1922-39) this Picture Gallery was completed in 1931, housing a marvellous collection of paintings.

G. Museum of Ethnology

Artefacts from missions outside Europe and private donations. Also pieces from non-Catholic places and confessions, including Buddhist statues and Islamic objects.

H. Museo Pio Clementino

With the most important collections of Greek and Roman pieces. By Clement XIV (1769-74) and Pius VI (1775-90)

J. Stairways of Bramante

Designed for Julius II and named by his architect. These stairs have been built as a connection between the Palace of Innocent VIII and the city of Rome.

K. Biblioteca Apostolica

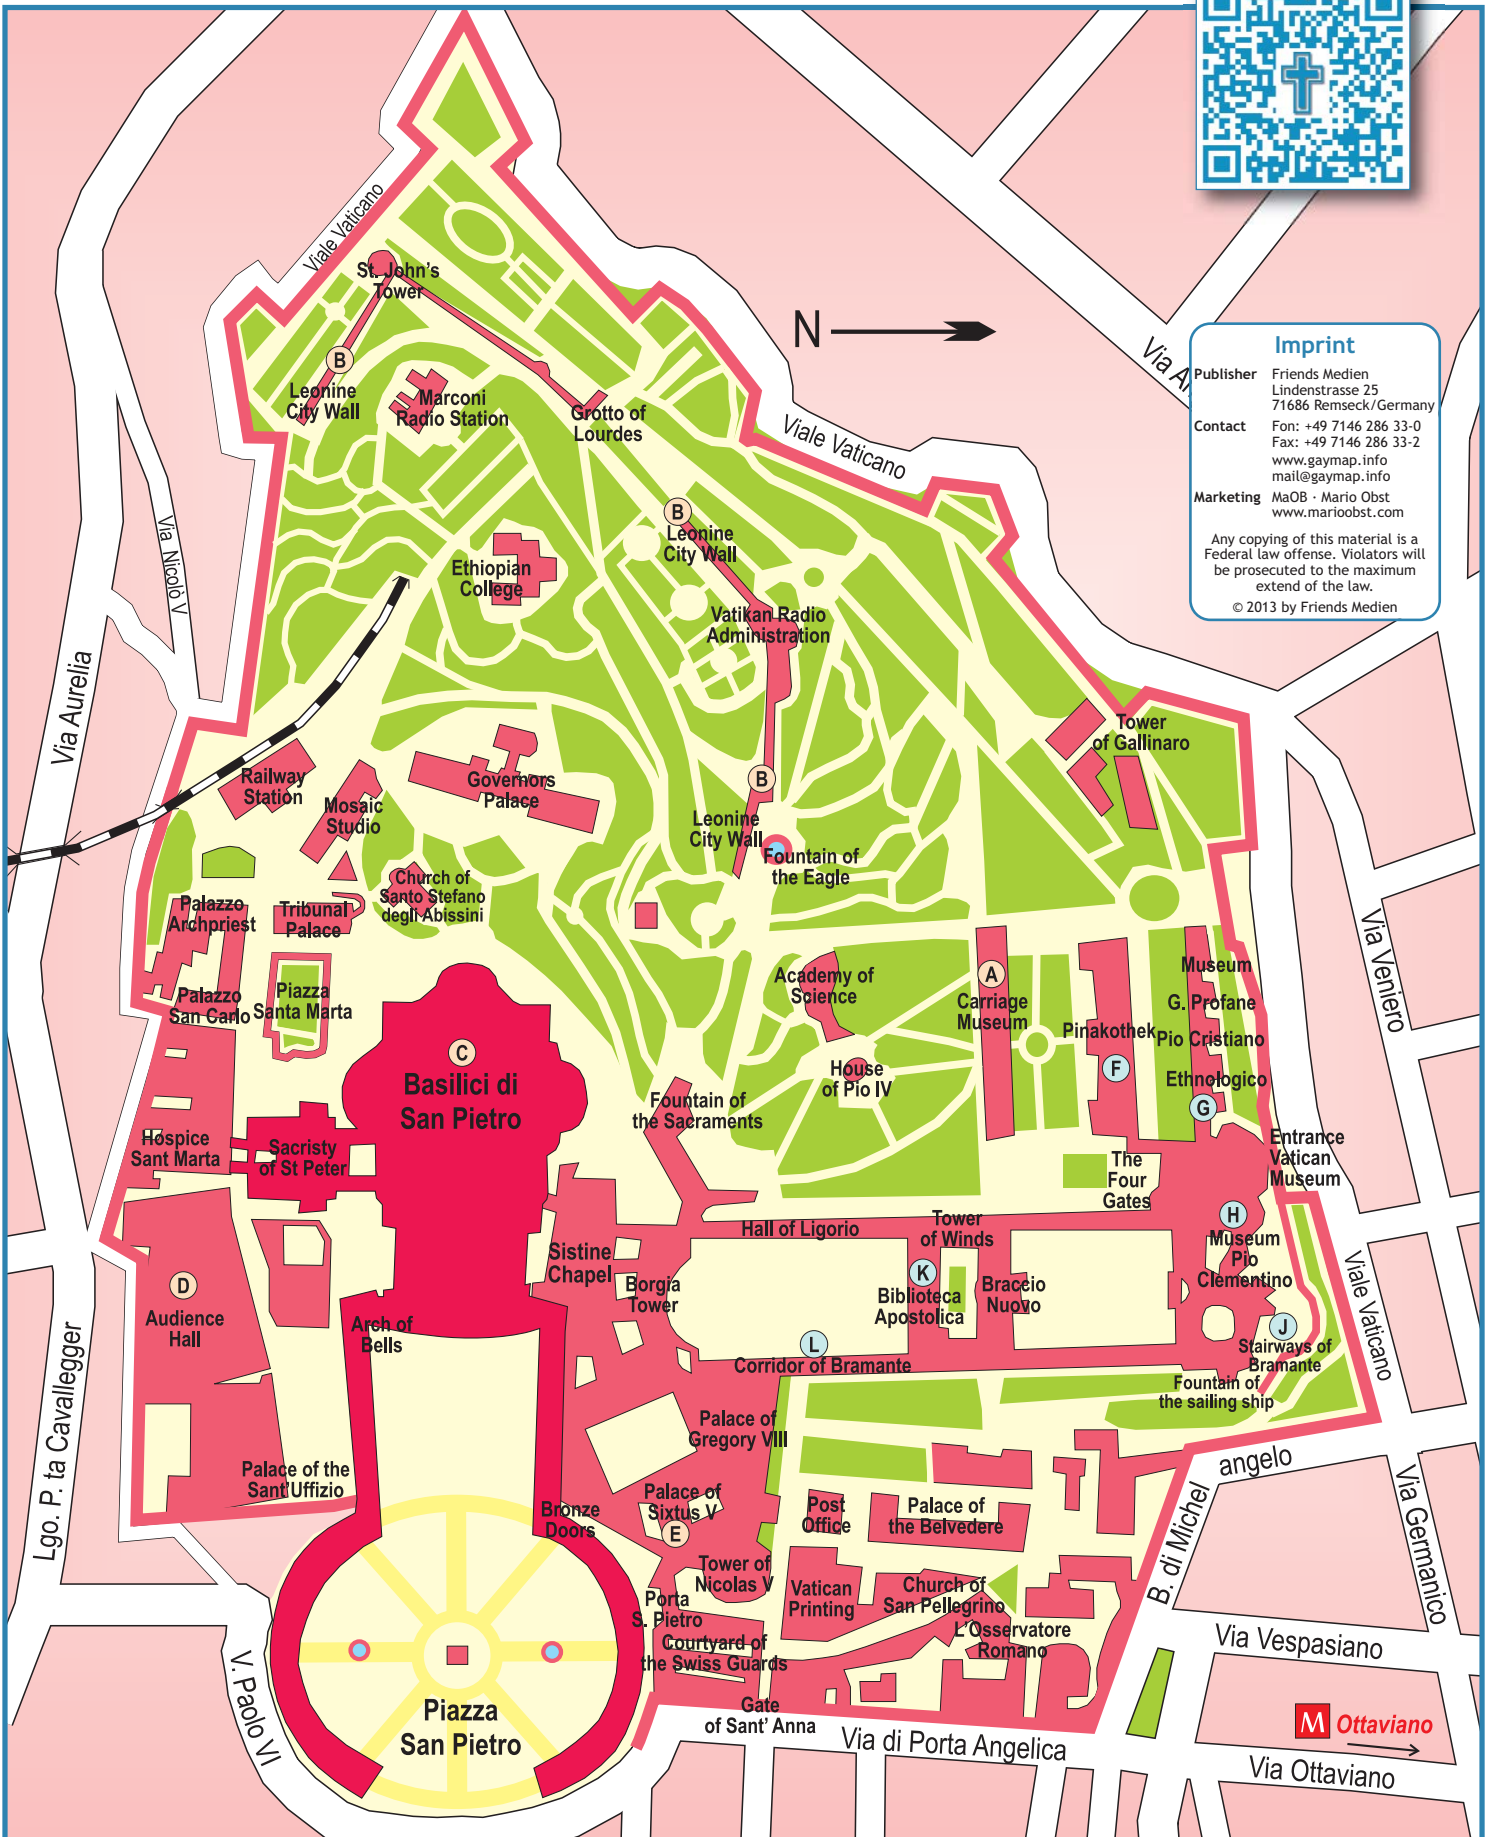

Founded in 1451 and permanently enlarged thereafter. Sixtus V built the wing to the Belvedere Courtyard including the large reading hall.

With 50.000 manuscripts, 7.000 incunabula, thousands of prints and more than one million books it is one of the most significant libraries in the world.

L. The Corridors

Julius II and his architect Donato Bramante had the idea to connect the buildings in the North of St. Peter's, adding two longitudinal wings around a magnificent courtyard.

Città del Vaticano

Named after Sixtus IV della Rovere (1471-84) as a new hall for papal court assemblies. Well known Florentine artists were asked to do the inside paintings. The completion of the chapel's decoration was made by Giuliano della Rovere, nephew of Sixtus IV and later pope Julius II. Michelangelo Buonarroti was the one to fresco the vault (1508-1512), which is the most important painting cycle in the world. Twenty years later Michelangelo also did the today's famous painting of 'The Last Judgement'.
